Officer Wolf, who was the victim of a slugging while trying to quell a riot in Coyle's saloon on Lower Broadway, yesterday morning, failed to turn up for his trial in police court yesterday morning and his bond of $17.50 was declared forfeited.

During the forenoon, however, he was arrested, along with James Brown, and the two members of the gang, had their cases continued until this morning, and a large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify in the case.

C. E. Foster, who assaulted Constable Baker on New Year's day, is trying to get a preliminary hearing on the charge of assault with intent to commit murder on the ground that he has already been indicted by the grand jury for resisting an officer. He claims that Justice Vlen consequently has no jurisdiction in the matter.

The state claims that the court has jurisdiction, because Foster's other case was brought directly before the grand jury instead of being referred to it by the judge of the district court. Justice Vlen was wrestling with the legal side of the case last evening.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Corporations Will Have to Pay Their Taxes in the County.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS BACKS WATER

Resolution Remitting the Taxes on the Driving Park Reconsidered and Rescinded—Same Action in Regard to the East Omaha Land Company.

The action of the city council and Board of Supervisors in remitting the taxes of the Driving Park association has been fully aired in The Bee, and the announcement this made that the property of this corporation, which is practically the same thing as the motor company, was to be entirely exempt from taxation naturally aroused a storm of indignation among the citizens.

The Board of Supervisors has now taken up the matter, and it remains for the city council to comply with the public sentiment and do likewise.

Yesterday morning A. C. Graham and B. L. Shugart appeared before the board as the representatives of the people and remonstrated against remitting the county taxes, and, after their arguments had been laid before the board, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That this board hereby rescind the action of remission of taxes on the Driving Park association, passed April 2, 1894, and that said association be required to pay the full amount of its county tax, the same as if said resolution remitting said county tax had not been approved.

This resolution, of course, has only to do with the county taxes, which will probably come up before the city council at its next meeting on Monday evening, and it will be asked to follow the example of the county board and take back its action. There is little doubt that the aldermen will see the thing in its proper light, for there is a great deal of interest awakened among the people. The supervisors made another step in the same direction when they adopted the following resolution also:

Resolved, That this board hereby rescind its action in remitting 20 per cent of the taxes of the East Omaha Land and Improvement company, passed April 2, 1894, and that said land and improvement company be required to pay the full amount of its taxes for the years 1893 and 1894, the same as though said resolution remitting 20 per cent of said taxes had not been passed.

The taxes on the property of the land and improvement company amount to $4,030, so that the board's action would have cost $800 as the result of their morning's work.

It was the arguments of the county assessor that persuaded the board to rescind its action with reference to the East Omaha Land company. He had insisted all along that the assessment was fair, while the company claimed the property was not worth as much as the assessor had stated.

In the other case the supervisors justify their action partially on the ground that they were misled as to the intentions of the Driving Park association and partially by the fact that it is the motor company that is the real party in interest. Instead of being a counter attraction, the association merely expects to have two or three days of horse races. The principal object is to increase the patronage of the motor line, and that is the fact in the case of the board could not see why a portion of the motor company's property should not be turned over to the county in payment of just and lawful taxes.

Jarvis Wine Co., Council Bluffs.NELIGH MURDER CASE
George P. Housh on Trial for Killing Charles Cage.

NELIGH, Neb., April 11.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—In the district court the day was consumed in empanelling the jury in the Housh-Cage murder case, almost everything of special interest, however, being excluded from the trial. The case was opened by County Attorney Boyd. The charge is murder in the first degree. The crime was committed in January last. Housh was standing inside a livery stable and Cage was near the door abusing a boy. Housh told him to let the boy alone. Cage advanced toward Housh and the latter drew a pocket knife and struck the fatal blow with a pocket knife. Hon. Judge Jackson opened for the defense and made the statement as to the facts of the case. The defendant, Housh, will not deny that he did the killing. He claimed that proof will show that a number were congregated at the livery stable and were furnished whiskey by the deceased and all, including the defendant, became drunk, and that while there a son of D. K. Staples came to induce his father to go home and Cage was pounding him when young Bittles, son of the livery man, interfered, and Cage knocked him down. Then Cage wanted to fight and said he had better go home and try to fasten the leg by the strap. One of the straps had pulled out and the defendant had his knife and was cutting a new one when Cage came in and struck him on the head with a brick. Housh again asked Cage why he was abusing the boy. Thereupon Cage again approached Housh. Housh told him to keep back, or he would hurt him. Cage then reached up and struck Housh on the forehead and the defendant reached up and struck Cage with the knife. By agreement the jury was permitted to go home to arrange for a long trial.
